The Next GI School Is Coming Up!

It is the tradition of ESPGHAN to hold a GI School every two years. After the last event in Portugal and Germany we invite Young Investigators and Trainees to join us for another exciting School in beautiful Athens, Greece, June 27 - 30 2018.

The main topics will cover coeliac disease, eosinophilic gastrointestinal diseases, IBD, motility disorders, PEG placement and endoscopy.

Local Organiser

Alexandra Papadopoulou

Application

Candidates will be selected upon application, with a supporting letter from an ESPGHAN member and an abstract that may be selected for presentation during the course (this is not a formal scientific meeting therefore abstracts may have been submitted previously to a public meeting).

General Information

The cost of the course will be 100€ to assure responsible application and needs to be paid upon selection of the candidates. Travel expenses will be reimbursed up to 300€. Costs will be met by ESPGHAN using an Education Grant.

Registration fee includes:

- Attendance to scientific sessions
- Meeting material
- Attendance certificate
- Accommodation for 3 nights
- Lunches, coffee-breaks and dinners
- Social programme
